

The goose takes her five goslings to the edge of the pond. She will show them the tender green plants that are good for them.